Disclaimer: After reading this letter, if you are not genuinely excited and eager to hire me, then you should check to see if you have a pulse! ☺

Greetings,

You should hire me because I have the skills you need, and decades of paid professional experience to ensure your business requirements are correctly captured, groomed, and implemented in a fashion that yields the best implementation in the shortest time, at the lowest cost, with minimal friction. You should hire me if you need a dedicated engineering resource-- and scrum master-- that specializes in architecting, designing, and building on-prem, hybrid and cloud-based solutions on a remote basis with modern tech stacks.

My love and dedication for configuring, running, and tuning Scrum Teams for maximum velocity-- using modern Agile Scrum tools—is a strong value add to your company, teams, and products. I excel at working remotely with full transparency, visibility, and accountability.

I bring years of experience to the table, yet, every day is a school day because change never stops in IT. I always strive to make solid contributions to the team, and to help those that need it. I always have fun on the job, because fun teams have the best chance at sustained success.

In conclusion, my resume contains the details, the technologies, and the projects of my career. My excellent references will do all the boasting for me. I have details on every project, so feel free to ask about them (the 10-page resume).

I hope to hear from you soon.

Thank you for your time,

Michael Bowman
